DEMOCRATIC LEADERS DESERT SMITH CAMP TO SUPPORT HOOVER

Smith's Tammany Alliance Drives Former Regulars From Fold.

The spontaneous sentiment for Hoover and Curtis visible in every direction during the first month of the national presidential campaign has surprised even Republican leaders at the party headquarters. Not only has the ticket stirred up an unusual degree of enthusiasm among Republican voters for this stage of the contest, but the number of Democrats who are leaving their party to declare allegiance to the Republican candidates is unprecedented.

Tammany Is Issue

The combined popularity of Mr. Hoover and Senator Curtis seems to have a nationwide appeal to voters of all parties. This is said to be particularly true in the middle west, where voters are inclined to view the record of Tammany Hall as an outstanding issue of this campaign, according to every visitor from that section. Reports to that effect have been brought to Washington by callers from Iowa, Minnesota, South Dakota, Indiana, Illinois and a number of other states.

Owen Supports Hoover

One of the leading Democrats to endorse the Hoover-Curtis cause has been former Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma, author of the federal reserve act and of the farm loan act, who announced that he would support Mr. Hoover for president, because of the Republican candidate's monumental record in preserving human life, during and after the war.

Hoover Best Qualified

"Herbert Hoover, in my opinion, is the best qualified man ever presented by any party in America for the presidency during my lifetime," declared Senator Owen.

He asserted that Tammany is the only issue of the campaign as between the candidates, and urge his fellow Democrats to join him in the fight to prevent "the Tammanyizing of the government of the United States."

Vance McCormick Turns

Another nationally-known Democrat who followed Owen's lead was Vance C. McCormick of Harrisburg, Pa., national chairman of the Democratic party in 1916.

Professor Irving Fisher of Yale University, one of the country's best known economists, who supported Woodrow Wilson in both 1912 and 1916 and has voted for Democratic (Continued on page eight)

Use Parking Lots And Leave Street Space for Visitors

The parking space situation seems to be in the best condition that it has ever been, there being a parking lot on each corner of the business district. There is one south of the News office, one south of the North Shore Bus Station, and Mr. Smith of Crystal Theatre has one for his patrons on the Sinclair Oil Station lot.

There is plenty of space if it were used, and the local people who are familiar with these lots should make make way for the strangers on the streets.

A subscriber reports that by actual count last Saturday afternoon there were 22 cars belonging to local merchants and employees parked on the street at the same time for at least an hour and a half. This was during the rush hours. There is little wonder that prospective purchasers complain about finding a place to park.

HEAT WAVE SENDS PEOPLE TO LAKES TO GAIN RELIEF

As we go to press the thermometer in our office registers an even 100 degrees, and we know there are several places in town not as cool as our well ventilated place.

The swimming beaches at the various lakes are serving as meccas for those who are trying to gain relief from this excessive heat. At some of the more popular beaches it is difficult to find room to swim.

The weather man promises no relief for another day at least.

Methodist Ladies Serve Chicken Dinner on Thursday, Aug. 16

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist church will again bring forth savory foods from their kitchen to feed the multitude on Thursday, August 16. At their last successful dinner two weeks ago, while only planning to serve 200, their guests reached near 300 and at that they served a big dinner as they always do.

This time the menu has been planned as follows: Fried chicken, creamed gravy, mashed potatoes, buttered carrots, sliced tomatoes and cucumbers, rolls, iced tea, coffee, orange ice and wafers. Doesn't that sound good?

Dinner will be ready at 4:30 standard time, but it doesn't matter what time you come to get your chicken dinner. Plenty of seating room has been arranged and better table service than ever before is assured by the ladies.

Chicagoan Drowns In Lake Catherine After Heart Attack

The body of Charles Hellstern, 61 years old, residing in the Palmer house and manager of a haberdashery in that building in Chicago, was recovered in Lake Catherine Saturday night by searchers. Hellstern was drowned in the lake Thursday afternoon about four o'clock when he drifted from his boat at a point approximately 40 feet from shore in 20 to 25 feet of water.

Spectators and acquaintances of Hellstern were watching from the bank as he dove off. When he failed to appear, an alarm was sounded and a crew of searchers equipped with grappling hooks began dragging the spot after divers had tried unsuccessfully to locate the body.

The victim who was known as an expert swimmer is believed to have collapsed in the water when he suffered a heart attack, but an examination showed that death was due to drowning. It was brought out at the inquest that he had been informed by a physician that his heart was weak and he had expressed the belief that he could not survive for long.

The wife of the victim attended the inquest held at Strang's funeral home in Antioch Sunday afternoon and made arrangements for shipment of the body to Chicago Monday for burial.

Vote For Conservancy District Tomorrow

A forward step is being taken by the citizens of the Fox river and tributary lakes from the state of Wisconsin to LaSalle county in the organization on August 10, of the Fox River Conservancy District.

The District has the power to supervise and even compel the treatment of all domestic and industrial sewage from the communities along the river and its principal object is to make the river a clean flowing stream. Its second objective is to maintain a constant, even flow of water throughout the summer season particularly, when, in the past, the summer flow has been very small.

The Regional Planning Association which is an association of the cities, villages and counties in the entire Region of Chicago, has recommended to the voters of the entire Fox River Valley a favorable vote on the District on August 10. Nothing finer could happen for that important part of the Region.

TOWN PROGRESS TALKS

Success is won, the great men tell us, by concentrating on the job at hand. Any golfer knows that the man in our cartoon has a very small chance of putting the ball into the cup while his gaze wanders over the landscape. "Keep your eye on the ball" is good advice in business, as in golf. If your business does not yield satisfactory returns, perhaps it can be made to do so. Inform yourself on all the new wrinkles in your line and use them. Advertise, install new equipment, give your customers better service, see how much you can do for the public. Do this, and it's likely your business will develop to such an extent that you will envy nobody, and have no desire to move to another city.

Fred Willett Is Crushed As Car Turns Over in Roadside Ravine

Tries to Back Runaway Car Down Hill, From Running Board.

NECK IS FRACTURED

Fred L. Willett, of Channel Lake, was instantly killed Tuesday evening about 6 o'clock, when his car backed into a roadside ravine near his home, overturned on him and fractured his neck.

The coroner's jury rendered the verdict that he "died from a fractured neck, caused by the car tipping over on him while trying to stop car from coasting backward, while on running board of his car."

Stops For Mail

From the testimony derived by the jury, it seems that no one saw the accident when it happened. The evidence indicated that Mr. Willett was driving to his home and as usual turned from the Antioch-Richmond road to the Channel Lake Country Club road to park his car while he took the mail from the rural delivery box which is located on the north side of the road just at the south gate of the Gifford House. Mrs. Thomas turned the corner toward the Country Club and called to Mr. Willett that his car was running away but she did not stop as there was no indication of anything serious.

Car Runs Away

No one can tell what happened from this point until after the accident happened. It would seem that he must have run to the car and climbed on the left running board of the car and being unable to get in and reach the break, had attempted to steer the car down the rather steep hill on to the main road and then on down to the east until he could come to the level road and again gain control of the car. He evidently cramped the car too much as he came to the main road, and after coasting down for a few feet the left hind wheel was running off the embankment. To counteract this he attempted to throw the front wheels to the left in order to bring the car back to the middle of the road, but instead both left wheels must have slipped off and the car, turned over on its left side pinning Mr. Willett beneath in the ravine.

Finds Body Under Car

When the first witnesses arrived, they found the car lying on the body completely covering it, with the exception of the right foot which protruded past the running board. The top was resting on the right side of his head evidently having landed with sufficient force to break the neck, thus relieving him of prolonged suffering. The chest was visible through the broken door.

Holds Letter in Hand

Mr. E. E. Campbell of Woodcrest, one of the first to arrive at the scene of the accident stated that when the car was removed, he found a letter held in the hand across the chest. He also picked up the glasses which were uninjured save for a bent frame.

Few Bruises

The body sustained very few visible bruises. There was one on the right temple, one on the lower lip and one on the right ankle. Apparently these bruises would not have been enough to cause serious injury had not the neck been broken.

Sold to Country Club

Mr. Willett was just past sixty years of age, and was favorably known to every one in the community, having lived here nearly his entire life. He was the owner of the land taken over by the Channel Lake Country Club.

He leaves to mourn his going: his wife, a son, Ray Willett, and two daughters, Mrs. Frank Lasco, and Alta Mae Willett.

Funeral services will be held at Strang's undertaking parlors Friday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock.

EVENING WRAPS OF SHEER RAYON
VELVET IDEAL FOR SUMMER WEAR

NO DOUBT, fashionables of the long ago would consider with disfavor an announcement of a velvet, vogue during midsummer days. But then that was before the exquisitely sheer and transparent velvet, which is the pride of the textile arts, were invented. Modern velvet is a joy to behold, a joy to wear, a fabric to be coveted for all the year-round wear.

At the very moment fashion is staging a prodigious velvet vogue which promises to attain a high crescendo with the coming of autumn and winter. Also the style horizon is being crowded with an imposing array of charming velvet wraps and gowns. The favorite coat to wear with the filmy flowery or plain chiffon frocks is sheer velvet, either in black, white or colors.

Many of the most alluring transparent velvets are of rayon weave. These new velvets which are growing more and more popular, and which promise to arouse as much enthusiasm in the world of fashion as have the guy silk prints which "everglody" is wearing, show striking diversity in their patterning. The designs include multi-color dots, rings, large disks, squares, spots, stripes, plaid, checks, some conventional motifs and above all novel modernistic motifs. Indeed they are designed very much after the manner of the silk prints which have held the center of the stage for so long a time.

The appeal of velvet is felt as keenly in the realm of wraps as it is in that of frocks. Now that such pretentious fets of open air opera, garden parties and formal after-six-o'clock country club affairs so fill the midsummer night social calendar, women of fashion are becoming more and more interested in the evening wrap as a summer as well as a winter item. For these, velvet is first choice. The evening wrap in the picture is a handsome model of printed transparent rayon velvet.

Hard to Explain Origin

Chile, or 'Chili' is an Indian name whose origin has not been satisfactorily explained, no less than its derivations having been suggested. Perhaps it is from the Quichua chiri or chili—cold—referring to the perpetual snow on many of the mountains.

Colors of Stars

The varying intensity of light and the changes of color of stars are due to the interference of the rays of light when passing through the earth's atmosphere.

Hide Must Be Tanned

The American Chemical society says that if left untanned a hide, like the most, decays. In the untanned state the fibers of the hide are glued or matted together. When tanned the strings or fibers are "individualized" so that they move separately without tearing apart. This process also swells or thickens the skin.

Pain Analyzed

Pain itself is not without its alleviations. It may be violent and frequent, but it is seldom both violent and long continued, and its pangs and intermissions become positive pleasures. It has the power of shuddering a satisfaction over intervals of ease which few enjoyments exceed.—William Paley.

Acquired Needs

Turn about is fair play. In this age of luxury invention is the mother of necessities.—San Francisco Chronicle.

What is Due the Public

The Bell System recognizes the public requirement for a constantly extending and improving telephone service. Last year four million telephones were either put in or moved. The number of local calls not completed on the first attempt was reduced by five per cent. The average time for handling toll and long distance calls was reduced from two minutes to one and one-half minutes.

During the last five years the Bell System spent $1,800,000,000 on additions, and improvements of its plant.

The very nature of the telephone business necessitates a single interconnected system. The Bell System accepts its responsibility for a nation-wide telephone service as a public trust. It is fundamental in the policy of the system that all earnings after regular dividends and a surplus for financial security be used to give more and better service to the public.

Good and Bad Qualities

The alantus or tree of heaven has some disadvantages but it does not appear to be destructive. Its roots do not spread like those of the Carolina poplar and other trees, so as to penetrate sewers, crack curbing and walls. It thrives in the poorest soil and is of very rapid growth. Its worst fault is the unpleasant odor of the stimulate flowers.

TOWN PROGRESS TALKS

Years ago in South Africa children played with rough pebbles that were diamonds, while their fathers filled the soil and doubtless wished they were in some distant city where opportunity for riches was on every hand. While they worked their fields in discontent, they were treading on diamonds which they could not see because their eyes were fixed afar, and it remained for strangers to come in and show them what they had missed. And so it is in our town. While we labor at the daily job, with our eyes cast on some distant city where we think we could carve out fortunes were we only there, we are overlooking golden opportunities near at hand. Let's polish up some of our own rough diamonds.

Mosquito Nuisance Worse Following Rain and Heat

Urbana, Ill., Aug. 7. — Excessive rains followed by hot weather have made the present time a critical period in the fight against the mosquito, says S. C. Chandler, Illinois Natural History Survey. Rain have filled ponds, hollows and low spots to afford excellent breeding places, and warm weather has hastened the mosquito's development, he added. The eggs are laid on the water and hatch into the familiar wiggle-tails from which emerge eventually the full fledged mosquitoes.

Mosquito control measures are not necessarily large scale operations. Tin cans and rain barrels are some times greater sources of mosquito breeding than distant ponds. In fact one of the most pestiferous species quite prefers such situations, and has become very much domesticated. If an effort is made to clean up these breeding grounds now the nuisance will be greatly alleviated later in the season, as there will be time for several generations if they are left undisturbed.

"Since water to the mosquito it follows that drainage is the surest control measure. Where this is not practical, oiling has been resorted to with success. Oil forms a film that spreads over the surface of the water and smothers the mosquito wigglers as they come to the top for air. The best results have been obtained with a half-and-half mixture of kerosene and heavy fuel oil. This mixture is better than pure kerosene because it spreads well, is lasting and resists the wind.

"Wigglers of many species of mosquitoes thrive where the edges of the ponds are grassy and weedy because here they are given protection from their enemies. The Anopheles mosquito, which transmits malaria especially prefers such situations. Often a cleaning of the edges will eliminate them."

Seek Way To Stop Alarming Spread of Apple Measles

Urbana, Ill., Aug. 7.—Measles, a new apple tree disease, has spread to such an alarming extent during the past three years in Illinois that it is now the major disease in certain sections of the state, according to Dr. H. W. Anderson, of the horticultural department, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. The recent increase in the virulence of the disease has been such that the search for a remedy can no longer be neglected.

At the present no remedy is known that will save the trees already infected. Experiments are being carried on at the experiment station of the college of agriculture to throw light on the manner in which the disease is transmitted so that some means to prevent its spreading in the orchard can be found.

Little is known of this malady which manifests itself as numerous small blister-like pustules over the younger twigs. These "pimples" are reddish in some varieties and are strikingly like measles eruptions. Trees affected by this disease are decidedly stunted and all or part of the tree dies after a few years. Although it has not been definitely established that the disease is transmissible the evidence in favor of this is strong. Orchards showing only a few infected trees a few years ago now show many and the new ones are closely associated with those that first showed symptoms of the measles.

Invention Long Delayed

There is nothing more prosaic than a rope, and yet in the march of labor-saving invention a rope-making machine was long one of the last on the list. So long, indeed, did rope-making remain one of the manual arts that the name of the place where the work was done has become ingrained in popular speech, and the rope factory, though in no way meriting the appellation, is still known in some quarters as the "rope-walk."

WILL PRESERVE SCENE OF ARTHUR'S BATTLES

Movement in England to Save Historic Site.

Penzance, England. — A famous stretch of the Cornish cliff, on the north shore of Cornwall, properly known as Church Cliff, will soon become a national monument if plans made by Rev. A. Hilsard Barnes, vicar of Tintagel, come to maturity this year. This stretch of cliff, about 50 acres in area, stands as a bulwark against the Atlantic rollers, and commands magnificent views of a countryside which is rich with legends of Arthur Pendragon and his Knights of the Round Table.

Below the cliff, and within view from its top, is the precipitous island rock upon which are a portion of the ruins of an ancient castle, by popular belief the birthplace of the afterward celebrated King Arthur. Not far away is the stone marked Slaughter bridge, where many say the last battle of Arthur was fought, and where the last of the Pendragons received his fatal wound.

Doubt Arthur Ever Existed. Milton, in his History of Britain, remarks: "Who Arthur was, and whether any such person reigned to Britain, hath been doubted heretofore, and may again with good reason." Scholars and historians have pointed out that there is little evidence worth consideration that Arthur was more than the creation of natural myth. Yet to many Cornishmen, and to Englishmen and Americans as well, the heroic tales of the son of Uther, recorded first by Nennius in the latter half of the Ninth century, and spun since by poets and singers into a glistening web of fancies and romance, have made the figures as real and believable as those of the more authentic persons of history.

The proof of this lies in the number of English tourists who visit the ruins at Tintagel, the town at Camel-ford, the battlefield at Slaughter bridge, and other spots closely associated with the legend. In the last half-decade Americans, too, have flocked to Cornwall. In increasing numbers the summer tourists have invaded the quiet country at the south of England to bathe on her white beaches at Penzance, Newquay, and Perranporth, to visit the famous tin mines near Redruth and Camborne, and to stand on the ground made famous by the tale of Arthur Pendragon, in the north.

Ruined Castle Draws Many. The chief interest at Tintagel, of course, is the ruined castle, which is popularly referred to as King Arthur's castle and so represented to tourists. Regardless of the truth of this claim, the spot has genuine historic associations of later date, though it is now generally acknowledged that the crumbling ruins are of a period posterior to the Norman conqueror. A few English writers, however, moved to defend the legends of the Pendragon, have declared it possible that the castle, or some mansion or dwelling, must have existed there before the Conquest; that it was later restored by the Normans in their own particular style.

At any rate, there must have been some sort of castle on the island of Tintagel, or Tintagol, when Geoffrey of Monmouth, the most believable of the early writers, recorded his version of the Arthurian legend, about the year 1147. At the close of that century, it seems evident, the Norman family of De Hornet, seated at Hornet, in North Hamerton, had a grant of the manor of Bessiney, including, no doubt, the island of Tintagel. They thereafter took the name of Tintagel as a part of the family name, which is thought to indicate that there was some castle or mansion on the island for them to reside in.

The Isle of Tintagel and the ruins upon it now belong to the prince of Wales, as duke of Cornwall. Much of the other land of especial note in the region is similarly protected for posterity. But the area along Church cliff, which is attached to the glebe land of the vicarage of Tintagel, is the property of the church, and as such may be sold at any time, provided proper authority is obtained from the ecclesiastical commissioners.

Since the increase in the tourist trade of the region began, the value of the land for building sites has steadily gone up. Rev. A. Hilsard Barnes and others interested in the sentimental value of the cliff front have been alarmed lately lest an especially fine offer induces the church to sell, allowing the cliffs to fall into private hands.

Model Farm Home Open to Public Near Mundelein

An early American country house, with furniture, draperies, rugs and wall decorations carried out in the most minute detail, yet equipped with every known modern convenience for labor saving and whole-some comfort, is to be found in the farm home of the Public Service Company's rural exhibit near Mundelein, to be opened to the public on August 11.

Ideas for Home-Makers. Women whose taste in furnishings favors the pure early American will find this home a revelation. Specially made hooked rugs, in keeping in pattern and color harmony with the wallpaper and hangings, cover the floors of the larger rooms. The furniture throughout the living room, dining room and upstairs bedrooms are models of good taste in reproduction of the fine old pieces our forefathers used. Modern ideas of economy however have been kept in mind in all the decorative and furnishing scheme, so that the exhibit will provide a fund of ideas for home-makers of all purses.

Labor Saving Devices. The equipment used in the kitchen embodies many new and interesting features for the facilitating of work and the reduction of the servants to the minimum. In the basement, the use of modern gas equipment provides automatic heating, hot water, laundering and clothes drying.

Like City Apartment. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Huson, who are in charge of the farm for the Public Service Company and who occupy the farm home, say that the house can be cared for almost as easily and satisfactorily as a modern city apartment.

The farm will be open to public inspection at all times.

Labdon Will Probated; Bequests Made Known; Church Receives $1,000

An estate of $52,000, personal property of $17,000 and real estate valued at $35,000, was left by Mrs. Mae L. Labdon, according to her will, which was admitted to probate by Judge Martin C. Decker. The will provides that $1,500 go to charity.

A bequest of $1,000 was made to the Methodist church and $500 to the Chicago Training Schools for Missions. The income from the estate is to go to Joseph L. Labdon, husband of the deceased.

The will specifies that $1,000 left to the Methodist church be put out at interest and the interest used to maintain a light to be kept burning nights in the east window of the church (before the picture of Christ.) Providing he goes to college for four years, Herbert Ferris, nephew of the deceased, is to receive $500 yearly during this period. If he does not attend college he is to receive $1,500, the sum of $500 to be given him when he is 21 years old and $1,000 when he reaches the age of 25. After the death of Joseph Labdon, Herbert Ferris is to get the residence and furnishings and the automobile, if there is one at that time.

Other Bequests. Upon the death of Mr. Labdon, the following other bequests are to be made: The sum of $3,000 each to Charles Horton, Russell Horton, Pearl Reis and Wm. W. Horton; the sum of $1,500 each to Wm. Horton, Jr., and Robert Horton, son of Wm. W. Horton; the sum of $1,500 each to Paul M. Ferris, Charles Herbert Ferris, Dorothy Jean Ferris, and Mary Caroline Ferris; after all bequests are taken care of, the balance is to be divided between two sisters of Mrs. Labdon, Drucilla Ferris and Isabelle E. Horton.

Seek to Patronize Air Mail Service By Lowering Rates

Quick to grasp an opportunity every city in the United States, whether on an air mail route or having connections are undertaking extensive drives to educate the citizens of their city on the advantages of the air mail which everyone can now use due to the drastic reduction in rates which became effective last Wednesday, August 1.

A program of this kind is being carried out by Postmaster Jones of Antioch through the co-operation of the National Air Transport, Inc., air mail contractors for the route between New York, Chicago and Dallas, Texas. Special announcement cards have been prepared for distribution by the postmaster containing all of the information regarding the new air mail rate. In addition to these cards special labels have been made up showing the last air mail collection time for each mail box and posters have been provided for the trucks.

3 Cents Extra Per Letter

The new air mail rate of 5 cents for the first ounce or fraction and 10 cents for each additional ounce means that it will only require three cents additional postage over the ordinary mail rate to send a letter by air mail and receive from one to three days savings in time of delivery. In other words for three cents more a letter consisting of three or four sheets can be posted before the last air mail collection time and 24 hours or more can be saved to eastern, western and western cities. Air mail may be sent anywhere in the United States. While Antioch is not on a direct route the mail is sent to the nearest terminal and then dispatched by plane.

Big Patronage Increase

The first three days under the new rate has shown a tremendous increase in the patronage of these services ranging from 200 to 600%. Business and individuals alike are now taking to the air for all business correspondence as well as social correspondence due to the tremendous savings which can be obtained at little additional cost over ordinary mail.

The Ethics of Jesus, is the title for the new series of sermons for the month of August beginning next Sunday at the Methodist church. So frequently people ask, "What Would Jesus Do?" in certain situations that this series should help to solve the immediate problem of the individual who tries to follow the Great Teacher. Each sermon will be complete in itself but to get the best out of the series one should plan to hear all of them. Mrs. Gaston and Mrs. L. H. Watson will sing at the morning service.

Wilmot Swamped Pikeville

Pikeville had been beaten only one game this season and were confident of trimming the local team, "Doc" Harsch and E. Taylor, two of last year's regulars were back in their Wilmot uniforms and played snappy base ball. Taylor pounded out a triple and a single in three times up, while "Doc" smashed out a double and a single in three times up.

Frank added another scalp to his belt when he allowed only four hits, and struck out eleven men; Britton, the Pikeville hurler, was pounded for twenty-one hits.

Gegau and Felts each collected five hits in six times at bat. Each of these sluggers pounded out two hits in the sixth inning when Wilmot scored nine runs.

The fielding sensations of the day were long running catches by McDougall and Herick. McDougall rushed into short right center to snare Hopkins line drive, "Mac" fell down and turned several somersaults after the catch but he held on to the ball. Herick galloped out into left field to snare a low drive by Britton.

Wilmot plays the next two games away from home, but they play Burlington on August 26, at the Wilmot Park.

Gave Name to Bullet

A mine ball is a conical rifle bullet with a cavity in its base plugged with a metal cap, which, by the explosion of the charge, is driven further in expanding the sides to fit closely the rifling. Such balls were much used in the middle of the Nineteenth century and are named after the inventor, Capt. C. E. Mene of France.

PIGS ON PASTURE NEED LESS GRAIN

Acres of Alfalfa Will Provide Green Feed for From 15 to 20 Pigs.

For growing pigs at lowest cost and for greatest profit, good pasture during the grazing season is required, says the Blue Valley Creamery Institute. Pigs fed on pasture need less grain and other concentrated feeds to make 100 pounds gain than those kept in a dry lot. At the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station, it was legume pastures, and those made from rape, are rich in protein, the growth-producing and muscle-building ingredient of feeds. Pigs on these kind of pastures balance up the corn part of their rations very satisfactorily and so require less tankage, shorts and some of the other costly concentrates. Thus a big saving is made in the feed bill for the grass-fed pigs.

Not only do pigs on pasture make bigger and cheaper gains than those in dry lots during the grazing season, but the grass-fed pigs will continue to do better than dry-lot pigs when they, too, are placed in dry lots after the regular pasture season.

Feeding pigs on pasture also helps maintain soil fertility. None of the valuable manure is lost when distributed over the fields by the pigs themselves. Another important ad-found that the grain consumed by pigs on pasture was 35 per cent less than the amount of concentrates eaten by pigs fed in a dry lot. As grains and other concentrates are the most expensive parts of a pig ration, the saving made by the pasture-fed pigs is considerable.

Pigs on pasture also make more rapid gains than those fed off grass. Feeding trials show that pigs on pasture make about 35 per cent bigger gains than those not on pasture. Alfalfa pasture, as well as all other vantage of feeding pigs on pasture is that pastures provide more healthful conditions. Providing good clean pastures has been found to be the most effective way to combat worms and other parasites which cause most of the common disorders and losses in pigs.

Alfalfa makes the best of all pastures for hogs. It provides good green feed for from 15 to 20 pigs per acre and, in addition, will make sufficient growth to make two or three cuttings of fine hay, all during a single season.

Certain priests, chosen for their virtuous habits, were appointed to utter public curses by the ancients, and this custom is still practiced by the Arabs. Their duty is to curse the crops in order to assure a good harvest.

A Home-Made 'Cream Cooler' for Hot Weather

VIEW SHOWING HOW ONE FARMER ARRANGED A BARREL CREAM-COOLER TO PRODUCE QUALITY CREAM

SIMPLE TO MAKE A GOOD CREAM COOLER

Small Outlay by Farmer Will Insure Quality of Product During Hot Months.

A low-cost cream cooling plant to insure the production of high quality cream during the hot weeks of July and August can be made right on the farm by the farmer himself, says the Plain Valley Creamery Institute, with the use of a water-tight barrel, two cans, and an open shed-like structure to protect the barrel from the rays of the sun.

In building such an arrangement, a water-tight barrel large enough to hold two cans is sunk into the ground, as shown in the accompanying illustration, near a well pump or at least near enough to a pump so that fresh, cold water can be frequently pumped into the barrel in order to keep the temperature of the water surrounding the cans of cream as low as possible. The overflow water can be piped to the stock watering tank. Such an arrangement can be hitched to a hand or power pump or to a kitchen pump or faucet. If more convenient the barrel can be located on the shady side of a building and thereby do away with the necessity of building a shed or covering. The detailed drawing shows how simple it is to build a "cream cooler" on the farm. The principal point to keep in mind is to pipe the inflow water so that it is discharged at the bottom of the barrel.

Two cans are necessary. Warm, fresh cream from each separation is kept in can No. 1 until it has cooled down to the temperature of the cream in can No. 2. Before the next separation and after it has been thoroughly cooled, it is added to the cream in can No. 2. Warm and cold cream should never be mixed, and can No. 1 must be thoroughly washed and cleaned after emptying its contents into can No. 2 and before fresh cream is poured in it.

Janette, of Burlington spent Saturday night and Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Charles Oetting.

TOWN PROGRESS TALKS

DON'T STOP HERE, MR. STORK! LET'S GO ON TO THE NEXT TOWN! THIS PLACE LOOKS UGLY! I DON'T SEE ANY PUBLIC PLAYGROUNDS, THE SCHOOLHOUSE IS DIRTY, THERE'S NO PARK, NO TENNIS COURTS OR GOLF LINKS - NOT MANY NICE HOUSES EITHER - NOT A HOMEY KIND OF TOWN - I'M SURE I WOULD NEVER ENJOY LIVING HERE.

Strangers are often prospective new residents. If they visit a town and find dingy houses, dirty alleys, back-number stores and few modern improvements, they are apt to go elsewhere. Mr. Good Citizen, step outside your business place and view it with the eyes of a stranger. Is the front in need of paint? Is the awning ragged? Are the show windows unattractive? And when you go home, is the house neat in fresh paint, with a close-clipped lawn adorned with shrubs, vines and trees? Do we have all the modern conveniences and improvements consistent with a town of our size? Would a stranger be attracted to our advantages? Have we done all we can to make this a homely town to live in?

So the People May Know that you are in business, come in and let us show what we can do for you in the way of attractive cards and letter heads. Good printing of all kinds is our specialty and if we cannot satisfy you we don't want your business.

BOY GETS LIFE IN KILLING CHARGE

Shoots Companion in Course of Minor Argument.

Pineville, Ky.—A thirteen-year-old boy, keen eyed, quick witted and quick tempered, has begun a life sentence for murder. He shot and killed a seventeen-year-old playmate because the latter tried to hit him with a stick during the course of an argument. The subject of the controversy now has slipped the mind of the youthful slayer, he admitted when questioned.

Heath Greer, a good-looking boy, typical of the backwoods section of Bell county, drew his pistol and shot down Luther Parlin, his friend and playmate of years, during a minor controversy.

The case has attracted great interest in this end of the state and ministers, lawyers and leaders in every walk of life have commented on the act and the sentence. Greer does not realize how much discussion has arisen over his case and apparently is resigned to his fate. He said that he and Parlin had been constant companions and schoolmates and that they had had no trouble before. He has even forgotten the cause of the quarrel which resulted fatally last April. Greer said that he picked up the pistol at his home without telling his father and stuck it in his pocket. He didn't tell Parlin he had it, either. He said he wanted to carry it "because all the other boys had 'em, some of them bigger than I am."

"Luther hit at me once with the stick and missed me; he tried to hit me again, and I pulled my gun and shot," Greer said, calmly discussing his part in the tragedy. He said he saw his companion stagger into the arms of some other boys in the crowd and then he carried away. Greer said that he came and told his sister and waited for his father to come home. His father, a good man, "never in jail in his life and never indicted," in the words of the youth, soon returned and told Heath to stay at home. Later they took him to jail, where he learned some days later of his friend's death. He didn't ask to see Luther or manifest any interest in him, but recently said that he was sorry it had happened.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"SPIRIT" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, August 5.

The Golden Text was from Psalm 133:10, "Teach me to do thy will; for thou art my God; thy spirit is good; lead me into the land of uprightness."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "To whom then will ye liken me, or shall I be equal? saith the Holy One. Lift up your eyes on high, and behold who hath created these things, that bringeth out their host by number; he calleth them all by names by the greatness of his might, for that he is strong in power; not one faileth" (Isaiah 40:25, 26).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Spirit being God, there is but one Spirit, for there can be but one Infinite and therefore one God" (p. 334).

Weather and the Moon

Many people believe that it is a sign of cold weather when the moon is far to the north. There is probably no relation whatever between the weather and the apparent position of the moon. The moon's motions are uniform and its position can be computed for years and even centuries ahead. No such uniformity exists in regard to the weather.—Pathfinder Magazine.

FIGHT FANS LOOK FOR HOT CARD FRIDAY NIGHT

that in itself was sufficient to satisfy those present and when the final bout was announced there wasn't a person in the house who wasn't wishing that there were just that many more bouts.

Eddie Burke Wins
The victory of Eddie Burke over Larry Levette was really the class of the card. Levette put up a real battle throughout and was still in there fighting when the fourth round was over. Both scrappers were cautious at the start with Larry finally starting the fireworks with a few hard punches to the side of Burke's head. The Waukegan boy possible had a shade of lightning but Burke was too clever at long range.

It is believed that they will be re-matched at a card in the near future and when they are every fight fan in Lake county should be on hand to witness the tussle.

Purdy Beats Jennings
The other half of the double wind up was won by Eddie Purdy, son of the famous referee, Eddie Purdy, and at the present time the 116 pound Eastern States A. A. U. title holder. He beat Pop Jennings, A. A. U. champion of the state of Iowa.

Purdy was substituted on the card for Jimmy Chase, the Golden Gloves winner, who accidentally suffered a long cut over his eye while fighting in Chicago recently and made a real hit with the crowd for his clean and hard punching.

Rosa Popular

After cleverly feeling out his opponent during the initial round, Barney Ross, the popular 125 pounder from Chicago, came back in the second and third sessions to almost put a kayo on Harry Derbel, A. A. U. bantamweight champ and to win the decision.

Derbel had a slight shade in the first round by using his left hand to the best possible advantage. Ross hardly fought him back until half the round was over. But from then on it was all Ross. He shot across a right to Derbel's jaw just as the latter was coming out of a crouch which sent him to the canvas for a count of nine shortly after the second round had started and had him backing up during the final.

He's a real boxer and fighter, this Ross, and Lake county boxing lovers will be given an opportunity of seeing a great deal more of him.

Jack Perry of Chicago came near defeating Johnny Ross, the "Mickey Walker" of the amateurs and the holder of the 160 pound A. A. U. Central States championship in the fifth bout of the evening's activities. He forced Ross into an extra round before the judges and referee were able to render a decision in favor of the latter. Ross forced Perry all the way through and won the fight by the blows he delivered while coming in and at close quarters. Perry was his superior at long range.

Johnny Danek won from Umberto Gortez lightweight champion of Mexico.

It looked as though the first round of the evening might mar the festivities when Jimmy Murphy so far outclassed Harrison that it was almost pitiful. However, Harrison wouldn't go down and he wouldn't quit.

Fine Card Tomorrow

The card this week will be just as good or better than the former cards. The popular Barney Ross will again entertain. He is about the nicest, coolest fighter that has ever stepped in the local ring. Ernie Jokinen of Waukegan, will again grace the ring. He certainly has a loyal following in these parts, as does his fellow citizen Larry Levette who will also be present. Phil Taylor has the greatest following of any colored man that has appeared.

TOMORROW'S CARD

Phil Taylor vs. Jack Harris.
Bobby Juhend vs. Alex Kazio.
Barney Ross vs. Charley Zahale.
Humberto Gutierrez vs. Frankie Hughes.

Paul Harris vs. Fritz Behrenz.
Ernie Jokinen vs. Jack Moore.
Larry Levette vs. Billy Bennett.
Angelo Anzalone vs. Harry Gerbel.

Young, Popular Referee

George "Jabber" Young, popular referee of the boxing bouts held at the Antioch Palace, has a history that few of his ring-side friends know about says Waukegan Sam. They wouldn't get the story from him, but here is what the dope bucket contains on his activities.

Young fought his way up in the lightweight division before the war. He engaged in 300 professional fights, was never knocked out and was knocked down but three times in all his career. He lost but 2 decisions in the entire 300 battles.

Along came the war and "Jabber," always in the fight, got into it. On the other side, he was a second lieutenant and was wounded twice. His wounds prevented his resuming his boxing career and now, as a sideline, he is one of the best referees in the game.

Young got his moniker, "Jabber" from his deadly jab in the prize ring and his constant jabber outside it. George talked his opponents out of

ACQUITTED OF MURDER, COWGIRL WILL JOIN RODEO

Lorena Trickey, Cleared in Dramatic Trial, Will Participate in Show.

Lakeview, Ore.—A wiry cowgirl who late last fall emerged triumphantly in a dramatic murder trial, will return to Lakeview this fall to win her way into the affections of thousands of visitors expected here for a big railroad celebration and annual round-up—September 1 to 3.

Officials of the celebration committee announced that Lorena Trickey, cowgirl and rodeo star, will be offered a contract to appear here during the three rodeo-railroad celebration days.

It was in Lakeview that Lorena was acquitted of murdering J. P. (Slim) Harris, the handsome cowboy of whom she said, "I loved him better than life itself," and there is no doubt but that she will return to visit her friends.

The Old West.

This celebration will be another chapter in the now nearly completed book, "The Old West." It commemorates the coming of a standard-gauged railroad—the Nevada, California and Oregon railroad. For Lake county it means fulfillment of a dream of many years and will bring this solated region in the corner of Oregon bordering California and Nevada into closer touch with the rest of the world.

Always a marvelous show because it is still a part of cowland, the annual roundup will be bigger and better than ever, with riders from 15 states competing.

It was at the roundup a year ago that the Slinging Slim Harris went to his death with a knife in his heart.

Still Colorful Cowland.

Lake county is still the colorful cowland of the old days but with the coming of the railroad industrial development seems destined to drive the riders from the ranges and to bring about a new phase of civilization.

Just recently an announcement was made that the M. C. ranch, one of the largest in the entire West, would be subdivided into a thousand small farms.

The old order is changing rapidly and at the celebration Lakeview intends to portray a vivid picture of the old order—led by the dashing Lorens—and to blend with it a likeness of the new scheme of things—contented farmers, railroads and good highways.

lots of victories and is still talking—most of the time.

He was recently chosen as one of the referees in the Olympic Bouts in Chicago to raise funds for the American boys sent to the Olympic games in Holland. He was also one of the Tribune Golden Glove referees.

TAMMANY FEALTY DRIVES DEMOCRATS AWAY FROM SMITH

presidential candidates since, came out with a ringing statement for Herbert Hoover, in which he emphasized the various counts on which the Republican candidate deserves the nation's support.

The resignation of Senator F. M. Simmons, veteran Democratic leader of North Carolina, from the Democratic national committee, on which he has served for 30 years, is regarded by political observers as one of the most severe thrusts yet made at the Democratic national ticket. Senator Simmons, whose influence in his own state has been equalled by few leaders in the country's political history, gave no reason for his action, but his uncompromising opposition to control of his party by the Tammany wing in the past supplies a probable cause.

Challenge Demo Sincerity
The determination of the Republican leaders to carry the fight to the opposition party on the tariff issue was expressed by Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, chairman of the Senate finance committee, who challenged the sincerity of the plank in the Democratic platform which purports to guarantee protection to industry agriculture.

The country had a bitter experience with Democratic promises on the tariff when it elected Grover Cleveland president. Senator Smoot recalled.

Farmers Organize Farm Supply Co.

The Lake County Farm Bureau has organized a subsidiary organization which is called the Lake County Farm Supply Company with headquarters at Grayslake, Illinois.

The commercial business of the Lake County Farm Bureau has grown to such an extent and has become such an important factor of the Farm Bureau that it became necessary to form this supply company.

The Lake County Farm Supply Co. is organized to handle feed, seeds, petroleum products, blinder twine, fruits, vegetables and any other supplies to help the farmer to produce food.

Two shares of common stock will be issued to each Farm Bureau member and will entitle him to a patronage dividend in the Farm Supply Co.

At a meeting of the directors they elected Willard Barrell, president, E. Harris, vice president; Frank Tripston, secretary and L. A. Mills, treasurer.
